

Your Ontario Nurse Practitioner...

in University and College Health Services

Nurse Practitioners provide primary health care services to students, faculty and staff.

Nurse Practitioners are able to ensure that students in health based programs have up to date medical exams and immunization.

Nurse Practitioners provide health care to many students who are away from home for the first time. This often includes international students who may present with unusual and/or untreated health problems.

Nurse Practitioners are role models to students and therefore encourage students to choose nursing as a career.
